

Pepi RER

PEPI RER, a manufacturer of flooring underlays, presents ProVent, a new combination underlay/vapour barrier for parquet and laminate installed on concrete sub-floor. ProVent features a proven ventilation effect that prevents the formation of mould under the flooring. The air circulation takes place because of the system of air channels and the micropumping technology which is activated by walking on the floor. ProVent is a reliable vapour barrier that protects the flooring material so that no additional protection is needed. In addition ProVent provides a better impact sound insulation compared with the regular foam underlays (20 dB).

Profilpas

Profilpas has been producing profiles since 1976. The company specialises in profiles for fitting floors such as ceramic tiles, marble, carpet, wooden floors, and laminate. In addition to a number of well known references, the company will be using Domotex to present some new products and finishes. These include Metal-Line skirting boards, Cerfix profiles for ceramic floors, and Unisystem profiles for wooden floors en laminate. New finishes such as Titanium, satin silver, and gold give a house a perfect look everywhere. The profiles are available in different sizes and styles to guarantee a 'perfect match' between walls and floors and add an elegant 'touch' to the interior.

Proline

Attractive design floors are being used increasingly as eye-catchers, even in public buildings. In the past, these usually thin floor coverings lacked suitable joint profiles. However, this has now been put right by the new profile from Proline, the Pronivo K3, which can rectify differences in height of up to 3mm.

Other new products include the mats Prodrain E, Prodrain MK, and Prodrain S. However, the creative design team at Proline still have various other innovations in the pipeline which will be on display at Domotex 2009.

Seicom

Seicom is looking forward to being an exhibitor at Domotex once again. At this trade fair, Seicom will be presenting a number of new products, which will definitely include the new rubberwood primer in white grade and natural. The new models Trento and Berna will also be on show: these have been tested, approved, EN 14904 certified, and cleared by Fiba. These new products have been specially developed to provide good quality products at competitive prices. The portable models such as the Bormio, for example, have also been updated. Seicom also hopes to find some new dealers at Domotex to cope with its growth in the European markets.

Solidfloor

Solidfloor has expanded its assortment with a good number of new items in various collections. Solidfloor Lifestyle now has no fewer than 8 new colours and is 10mm thick, 180cm long, and 16cm wide. These are American sorts of oak, walnut, or maple. Thanks to a unique new smoking technique, American oak is given a splendid dark shade which is entirely in keeping with the trend towards darker and/or distressed floors. Solidfloor is also presenting a completely renewed collection under the name Solidfloor Hermitage (6 decors): 2-layer solid oak floors. To see this and other new floors, you go to the Solidfloor stand in Hall 8, number C08.

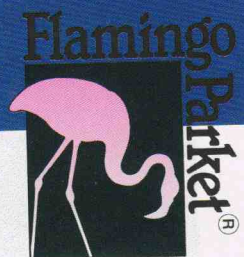

Teka Parquet

At Domotex 2009, TEKA and its European office PlyQuet will be presenting its three-layer wooden floors which are produced in Indonesia. These floors are available in different designs such as 1, 2, and 3 strips, and 23,5 cm wide, and soon also 35 cm wide
